

INTRODUCING PASSPORT PROVEN

THE INSTANT IDENTITY DOCUMENT VALIDATION SYSTEM

The influx of illegal migrants and the seemingly endless supply of fraudulent identity documents drive an ever-increasing need for businesses and public bodies to check identity documents. This is to meet legal obligations, reduce the risk of fraud and to protect a business's reputation.

Recruiters and HR personnel are faced with many different types of document which might or might not be acceptable to demonstrate the Right to Work in the UK. Increasingly fraudulent documents are used to legitimise illegal migrants which creates a huge challenge for those who have to check documents. This is especially so as many do not have the skills required to identify fraudulent documents.

Passport Proven is an Identity Document Validation System (IDVS) that has been designed by practitioners for practitioners enabling users in the private and public sector to save Time, Money and the Worry associated with identifying fraudulent documents.

Passport Proven is a web based IDVS that can be used by any organisation anywhere just so long as they can access the Internet. This makes it ideally suited for those companies and organisations who have multiple sites within the UK or elsewhere. It is a proven tool with clients being able to swiftly check documents and prevent those with no right to be the UK from entering their business or renting property.

Professionals, Paul Leadbeater and Ian Westwood, who both speak regularly at workshops on immigration law and document verification, have been actively involved in its development.

Passport Proven's unique selling point is the fact that there is no set up fee or contract; it is a simple 'Pay as You Go' service; is easy to use; and provides immediate results.

Passport Proven should be seen as complementary to a company's existing 'Right to Work', 'Right to Rent' or anti-fraud processes. It is not intended to replace these processes, but to enhance them. Neither is it a substitute for the trained eye, but is an extra tool to assist in identifying fraudulent documents.

Passport Proven is backed up by the services of document verification specialists, including Ian and Paul, who have the experience of checking and validating identity documents, including Home Office papers, qualifications and documents from around the world.

Passport Proven is a unique consultancy working in the ever more complex arena of immigration law. Working with you, we can identify and rectify problems before they have an adverse impact on your business and clients. We understand that reputation in business is of paramount importance and we will work with you to protect yours. We have extensive immigration legislation and anti-fraud experience having formerly worked in the Immigration Service and Police.

Access to quality training in this relatively new field is hard to come by and often limited to government employees; at Passport Proven we believe client knowledge is as important as the product and we provide extensive support from training to information bulletins and checks on unusual individual documents.

We offer training in Immigration Compliance and Identity Document Verification techniques. We are also available to carry out Compliance Audits.
